

Nell Gwynne wins her claim for equal pay with male court jesters

Nell Gwynne, alias Miss Gaynor Miles, yesterday won her claim at an industrial tribunal that she had been unfairly treated by a restaurant that paid her less than it paid two male court jesters in an historical entertainment.

The tribunal in Looe ruled that even though the jobs were different, they were of equal value. It then set her claim under the 1970 Equal Pay Act and told the two parties to settle compensation - thought to be about £1,500 - between themselves.

Last night the Equal Opportunities Commission welcomed the decision as an important one, especially for its ruling on "equal value", which would encourage women in other fields to seek equal pay even though their jobs were different from male colleagues.

Miss Miles, aged 28, of Shepherd's Hill, Highgate, north London, played the part of Charles II's mistress for two years at the Beefeater by the Tower restaurant until January, 1982, receiving between £23 and £40 a week less than a jester.

After the two-day hearing the actress said that she was "delighted" with the outcome. "I am very, very pleased. I hope it may show other women that it can be done."

She said that her campaign for equal pay, involving an 18-month legal battle prior to yesterday's judgment, had been very taxing.

Mr David Paonick, her solicitor, told the tribunal that the "basic entertainment functions of Miss Miles as a lady of the court and the male jesters were broadly the same."

"We are not dealing with a performance of Hamlet here. We are dealing with a company that is providing general entertainment to its audience. Each part is as physically and mentally taxing as any other," he said.

For the employers, Shakespeare Tavern Playhouse (Looe), Mr Allen Dyer said there were "material differences" between the work of the jesters and the ladies of the court, which were reflected in pay levels.

Legally, the case does not yet create a precedent which other women inside and outside the entertainment world can follow.

Only a decision of the Employment Appeals Tribunal (a second stage in litigation) can establish legal precedent.

However, the Equal Opportunities Commission, which backed Miss Miles' case, said it was the first successful case of its kind in the entertainment industry.

"The case will also encourage other women in other fields to claim equal pay for work of equal value", the commission said.

One example could be in the clothing industry where jobs are traditionally segregated, with women machinists receiving lower pay than male cutters - jobs that might be considered as equal in value.

Similarly, a senior secretary might claim equal pay with someone on the lower rungs of management.

"The significance of this decision on equal value stems from the fact that the Government is currently attempting to draft legislation to extend Britain's Equal Pay Act to incorporate equal value", the commission said.

Army inquiry opened on hang glider death

An inquiry began yesterday into the death of a senior army hang gliding expert killed in a hang gliding accident at Hay Blin, Powys, mid Wales.

Captain James Taggart, aged 41, (pictures above and right), who was awarded the MBE in January for his services to the sport, plunged 300ft to his death shortly after taking off on a test flight on Monday evening. He was commanding officer of the Army's hang gliding centre at Sennybridge, part of the adventure training school there.

Captain Taggart, a father of three, from Lindford, Bordon, Hampshire, was training five other students at the time of the accident. An inquest is also to be held.

Capt Taggart pioneered the sport in the Army and convinced the Ministry of Defence to officially recognize it by opening the school.

Wave of price rises expected as North pays more for beer

By Derek Harris, Commercial Editor

A wave of draught beer price rises, adding an average 2p to a pint of bitter, was signalled yesterday as increases were announced in the North-West of England, the West Midlands and Scotland. Draught lager is mostly up by 3p.

The move comes as beer sales have reached their best level for years during the heatwave. Sales have risen by up to 15 per cent in the North and 20 per cent in the South.

Lager sales nationally have climbed by at least a third during the heatwave.

But brewers yesterday discounted suggestions that they are cashing in on increased demand. It still seems likely that the past months sales surge will merely cancel out the effects of the wet spring when beer production slumped, the Brewers' Society said.

By the end of the year beer production is likely to be still at last year's declined levels, the society added.

The North-West price rises have so far come from Greenall Whitley, the regional brewer at Warrington, the Manchester-based Boddington's Breweries, Grand Metropolitan's Wilsons and Tetley Walker, part of Allied-Lyons. Brewers blame cost increases for the rises.

Other brewers are expected to follow with their own increases in the North-west.

In parts of the West Midlands there are price increases of up to 2p a pint from Allied-Lyons through its Ansell's subsidiary Tennents, the Scottish arm of Bass, is increasing larger prices by 3p a pint.

There is increasing speculation in the trade that by the autumn price rises will be seen in the South.

Chef and Brewer, part of Grand Metropolitan, is dropping Guinness at 75 outlets and may drop it at even more of its 1,460 public houses. It wants a better deal from Arthur Guinness and Son on profit margins and promotions.

North Sea blast will have little effect on oil flow

By David Young, Energy Correspondent

The explosion and fire on the North Sea oil platform which injured 12 men, will have only a slight effect on production from the Forties field. After the blast the men were flown to hospital and 71 other rig workers were evacuated.

All the injured men are in "stable" condition although seven are being kept in a sterile area. All have burns to their hands, faces and backs.

The fire followed the explosion, when drilling work on a new well hit an unexpected pocket of gas a quarter of the way down to the final depth at 2,000 metres.

Blow-out preventers can only be fitted to drilling equipment when the drill is close to its final depth and normally the weight of drilling mud is enough to prevent problems from gas pockets.

A team from British Petroleum, the operator of the field, which is Britain's second largest, has arrived at the platform, 110 miles east of Aberdeen, to investigate the cause of the accident.

Security watch on a new pen

By Richard Evans

Employees at the plant have had to sign a document pledging not to reveal the details of their work. Telephone calls concerning the pen between the firm's European headquarters at Newhaven, Sussex, and the French factory have been banned, and all letters and documents referring to the product are despatched in specially sealed envelopes.

"All staff are forbidden to enter the area where the pen is being prepared", M Pierre Laffly, general manager of Parker France, said yesterday.

"Only three people, myself included, are authorized to enter. Only two people are working on the most secret processes, and they are solemnly pledged to keep their task a secret."

The new pen's imminent arrival comes shortly after the Parker declared its first losses since being founded in 1932. The firm is hoping that its new invention will, together with a £20m investment and modernization programme, point the way to a more profitable future.

Amid the secrecy, one thing is certain; the new pen will not be cheap. "The price is likely to run into four figures", a spokesman said last night.

Hay-fever bureau to back earlier exams

By David Nicholson-Lord

The board of the National Pollen and Hay Fever Bureau is expected to propose that school and university examinations should be held a month earlier to avoid the worst of the hay-fever season, which has been particularly bad this year.

The first season of national pollen forecasts ends on August 12, when counts should be low or non-existent in all but the most extreme areas of Northern Scotland.

The bureau said yesterday that there had been many pollen counts of more than 2,000 and levels had been up to three times worse than last year.

It said that after a poor start the accuracy of forecasts had achieved 80 per cent and it described the service, the first national system of pollen forecasts in the world, as an outstanding success.

The first forecasts, from June 1, were hampered by the abnormally cold and wet weather in April and May followed by temperatures into the 90s in late June and July.

This compressed the hay-fever season and disrupted the climatic model on which the forecasts are based.

Concern over examination times is based on the fact that although there are six million estimated hay-fever sufferers in Britain, these are concentrated in the 15-24 age range.

Research indicates that one in six students taking O- or A-levels or university examinations is affected.

The newly-constituted board of the bureau, which includes parliamentarians and representatives from government departments, is to meet shortly to discuss examinations and also the effects of hay-fever on driving.

Mr John Haschak, an executive officer with the bureau, said yesterday: "We are not talking about a drastic revision of the whole school year, just shifting examinations forward a month so that they would all be over by the beginning of June." This was already case in Scotland, he added.

Cerne giant gets some new lines

Volunteers from the British Trust for Conservation are taking about four tons of chalk to Dorset to improve the outline of the Cerne Giant, the 180ft full-frontal male figure cut into a hill above Cerne Abbas.

Miss Ceri Lloyd-Jones, the volunteers' leader, said: "We are only doing the arms, the horizontal lines."

"From the road some of the lines cannot be seen. We are trying to make him look a bit more obvious."

The giant's folklore includes the belief that women who sit on one part of his anatomy will conceive.

The restoration, which began yesterday, is being sponsored by Heineken, the lager company.

Bail refused for Nilsen

Dennis Andrew Nilsen, aged 37, who is accused of five murders, was refused bail at the High Court yesterday. Nilsen, a former policeman and civil servant of Cranley Gardens, Muswell Hill, north London, represented himself in an application before Judge David Tudor. Prior to the Common Pleas hearing, the hearing was transferred from the Central Criminal Court, which is in recess.

Homosexual theory in murder of TV actor

By Our Crime Reporter

The killer of Mr Peter Arne (right), the television and film actor, was being hunted by police yesterday. Mr Arne, 63, died at his London flat in what detectives believe was a murder with homosexual overtones.

The body of Mr Arne, who was familiar to television viewers for his roles in series such as Secret Army and Triangle, was discovered by police on Monday evening. He had been severely beaten around the head that initial identification was impossible.

Police were called to his flat, on the ground floor of a small block in Hans Place, Knightsbridge, after a Filipino maid discovered bloodstains and a piece of blooded wood in the communal hall. Mr Arne was found in the hall of his flat.

He was seen leaving his home, close to Harrods, on Monday morning with a friend who had been staying with him. The man has been seen by police and is not a suspect.

Detectives believe that Mr Arne, a bachelor, was a homosexual.

Asbestos risks report 'suppressed'

Professor Donald Acheson, who becomes chief medical officer at the Dept of Health and Social Security in October, has accused the Government of covering up a report on asbestos dangers. He and a colleague, Dr Martin Gardner, claim that ministers suppressed findings for political reasons.

In a report, the doctors call for a ban on the importing of blue and brown asbestos because it could cause cancer. The doctors, who work at Southampton University, have also asked for tighter controls on white asbestos.

Dr Gardner said the Government had suppressed the findings because they could lead to new legislation. The Health and Safety executive denied that there had been a cover-up.

French 'first language in 98% of schools'

By Our Education Correspondent

About 98 per cent of schools in England, Wales and Northern Ireland teach French as the main foreign language, the Department of Education and Science said in a report published yesterday.

The survey, carried out last autumn by the Assessment of Performance Unit on 1,049 schools, shows that it is rare for schools to teach German to children aged 13 as the main foreign language and even more unusual for Spanish to be taught.

Over the next 17 years she made herself not only the acknowledged leader among women's fashion writers but also created a reputation for British fashion at a time when this country was considered a desert and British fashion writers regarded throughout the world as second class citizens.

Mrs Ernestine Carter, OBE, who died on August 1 was a journalist who wielded immense authority as a writer on women's fashion. As Women's Editor of The Sunday Times from 1955 to 1968 and Associate Editor of the paper from 1968 to 1972 she played an important role in shaping taste and in particular was quick to recognize the new young designers' talents of the 1960s and put her authority behind a fashion revolution which, while it seemed at the time to be in direct confrontation with the world of haute couture, was to make London at that period the fashion house of the world.

Cricket even managed to get into family groups and conversation pieces like Thomas Hudson's Mrs Mathew Michell and her Children or Thomas Beach's The Tindall Family. It crops up in Victorian times in the occasional rustic genre piece, such as the Tate's charming A Country Cricket Match, Sussex, by John Robertson Reid (now here, I wonder, did the Tate itself last find wall-space for that?), and we have probably forgotten that before made himself into a Victorian sage. Watts earned an honest penny in 1837, by making five lithographs to illustrate the finer points of batmanship. We may also forget that Camille Pissarro was sufficiently charmed by the atmosphere, if not the technicalities of the game to paint it a couple of times on his visits to England. Its impact seems to have been less on twentieth-century painters - you have to look quite hard to determine why Carl Weight's The First Cricket Match of Spring is actually so called. But there is still plenty of material left undisturbed: Sir Gerald Kelly, for example, painted some of his most evocative small panels at the Oval facing towards the gasworks during cricket matches, but none of them is included. So the way is open for further explorations - not to mention Art of Football and all the rest of the sports in turn.

The men in white coats have characteristically treated the body as a machine, affected by external agencies and cured by external means.

A stream of City analysts has been wearing out the welcome mat at Redland this week looking for further evidence that the group has finally thrown off the effects of the recession in the building industry.

Yesterday it was the turn of Rowe & Pitman, the brokers, who followed close on the heels of De Zoete & Bevan earlier this week. According to De Zoete the building sector has underperformed the rest of the market by up to 13 per cent so far this year, but the worst may be over.

It regards Redland as a cheap long-term buy following words of encouragement from the group. The group's UK operations appear to be doing well, with a recovery in Germany continuing apace. As a result De Zoete is still looking for pretax profits of £81m in the current year compared with £66.3m last time.

Yesterday the shares responded to the news with a rise of 6p to 238p. The market was anxiously awaiting the findings of Rowe & Pitman's trip to confirm the trend.

The rest of the equity market recovered from a hesitant start to the US bond market. The FT Index closed at its high for the day 10.9 up at 718.0. Sime Darby Berhad raised £12.3m by placing its 3.87 million shares in Mills & Allen most newspaper shares un-held. Holdings, up 1p at 116p, and Associated Newspapers, up at 4p at 415p, are still disputing ownership of a couple of hundred Reuters shares. The main area of disagreement through is how best to float the £16m issue. The earliest opportunity for agreement will be a Reuters board meeting on September 14.

Yesterday's newcomers Polytechnic made a confident start to dealings on the Unlisted Securities Market where the shares closed at 195p compared with the placing price of 111p arranged by brokers Rowe & Pitman. Among the leading equities Boots added 6p to 172p in its slimmed down form following a one-for-one scrip issue recently. Big gains were also seen in Allied-Lyons 3p to 145p, BICC 3p to 228p, Becham 10p to 350p, GEC 8p to 220p, GKN 3p to 171p, Grand Metropolitan 7p to 345p, Genesis 5p to 232p, Thera East 15p to 614p and Tate & Lyle 10p to 352p. Glaxo spurred a further 25p to 930p on United States support. It now emerges The Stock Exchange has approved the proposed placing of 3.5 million shares at 30p in Perill, the publisher and greeting cards group. Statism say the issue was blocked on a "point of principle" and it hopes to launch the shares later this year with a full profits forecast for the year to October 31, 1984. Last night the company was meeting the Stock Exchange.

Morgan Guaranty holds about 16 per cent of the shares in American deposit receipts on behalf of United States investors. American investors possibly own more than 25 per cent of the shares. The latest surge of buying follow reports over the weekend that the group's anti-ulcer drug, Zantac, speaks for about 12 per cent of the United States market in less than two weeks of sales.

Shares of Bellair Cosmetics spent another day fluctuating wildly on takeover hopes. At one stage the shares hit 710p before profit-taking left the final picture 30p lower at 680p. Waskon Establishment, a Turkish controlled investment group, earlier this year bought 75 per cent of the shares from Fenton Hill International for 8p a share. Bellair remains mystified by the surge of interest which makes it the best performer on the stock market this year.

Brewer Arthur Guinness fell 4p to 109p on fears that it had lost its lucrative contract to Grand Met's Chef & Brewer chain of restaurants. Chef & Brewer is reported to have dropped the brew from more than 70 of its chain and may follow suit with the remainder shortly.

Shares of Inter City, the East End textile group, rose another 4p to 70p following Wearwell's decision to take a 51 per cent stake.

INVESTORS' NOTEBOOK edited by Michael Prest

Conflicts pose a mergers problem

Cecil Parkinson, Secretary of State for Trade and Industry, is having a new look at the way mergers are referred to the Monopolies Commission.

That he should make this public is no doubt a response to the embarrassing conjunction of his about-turn on the Stock Exchange case and hints that his new team would not be so capricious with Office of Fair Trading and Commission judgments.

Managers and city folk who worry about present uncertainty should not build up their hopes. The trouble is that, with their wide public interest, the OFT and the Commission are obliged to interpret industry policies which do not appear to exist. To clarify the guidelines would be to clarify the policy and that is not likely to happen.

At present both the OFT, in recommending references, and the Commission, in judging them, must subconsciously adjust to changing priorities on such things as employment in the regions versus rationalization.

As previous ministers discovered, statements of policy are a hostage to events. It is much easier to allow the Commission and OFT, which aim to treat each case on its merits, to tread the narrow path between random ad-hoc-ery and rigid policy-making.

Today, Britain's needs point in two, occasionally conflicting, directions. There is a strong need to make old industries and business sectors more efficient and to provide them with the funds and the management for rationalization and for the sometimes expensive moves to generate new-technology products.

On the other hand, we should oppose management concentration by backing the independence of successful decision-making units, especially in the poorer regions, where independent local companies can be worth many millions in regional aid.

And there should be a prejudice against big companies investing in acquisitions instead of the new business that the country needs.

The OFT should be more suspicious of cash bids than of share-for-share exchanges where the market, and institutional investors, must take a closer interest in long-term consequences.

Unitech

UNITECH Year to 28.5.83 Pretax profit £5.8m (£3.7m) Stated earnings 8.4p (5.4p) Turnover £115.8m (£98.4m) Nat/final dividend 2.85p, making 4.25p Share price 203p shows 5p Yield 2.5% Dividend payable 3.10.83

Unitech is back on a growth trail after two years of dull profits, continuing the profits improvement announced at the interim stage, the company yesterday produced record pretax profits of £5.8m for the year ending May 28, an increase of 58 per cent on the previous year. They were achieved from sales which rose by 28 per cent to £115.8m.

At the same time, Unitech released details of a proposed one-for-10 rights issue to raise £6.4m. The proceeds will fund last year's £4.5m acquisition of the Eric group electronics companies.

The balance of the cash, coupled with the £2.5m proceeds from the sale of Celdis to STC in June, will be used to reduce borrowings and fund Unitech's increased demand for working capital: the group is expanding at a rate of 30 per cent a year in some business areas.

Part of the increase in profits arises from the first-time inclusion of results from Eric, which was acquired in February, 1982. Yet without Eric, group profits would have risen by 46 per cent after a more than doubling of profits from the electronic component marketing division to £1.6m.

Pretax profits of £9m are possible in the present year, but the shares look fully valued at yesterday's price of 203p.

Peel Holdings, whose shares were suspended over a month ago, return to the listings as a fully fledged property development and investment group next Tuesday. Shareholders approved the acquisition of minority interests in Abbeystead and the takeover of the John Bright Group and Grainstone on Monday.

This move turns what was once a ragbag of companies based on the Peel Mills into a property development group specializing in free standing retail developments. The group has a planned development programme amounting to £19m, about £12m of which is store schemes.

At the heart of this expansion is Mr Peter Jevans, joint managing director of Abbeystead Securities and on the main board of the group.

Under the enlarged group, after the issue of 5.8m new Peel shares worth £12.5m at 210p a share, Peel will have net assets of £22.3m, the equivalent of 269p a share. The directors are forecasting profits of £1.05m for the current year to March.

All development is funded internally through medium-term loans. The group has outstanding borrowings of £4.5m although this is expected to rise to £14m.

When shares were suspended in June the middle market quotation was 215p, a higher than average 25 per cent discount on the new estimated asset value of 269p. On this basis investors must express a degree of caution, but Peel's involvement almost entirely in the retail market probably has greater chance of long-term growth than companies developing suburban and provincial office buildings.

Managers bid £22m for KCA Drilling

By Michael Clark

KCA International, the oil exploration group, is selling the remaining 75 per cent of shares in KCA Drilling, its publicly quoted subsidiary, for £22.2m.

Rosshold, a private company owned by Mr McDowell, a director of Drilling, and several of its executives has joined with the Chemical Bank to bid for the outstanding 60m shares.

Rosshold is offering £15.4m in cash with the remaining £6.8m made up of 9 per cent secured convertible loan notes. The deal values the entire company at £30m, or 37p a share, that is well below the 95p at which the public was offered shares in Drilling when it came to market two years ago.

Under the rules of the takeover code Rosshold must now make a formal offer of 37p to the rest of the Drilling shareholders but it is unlikely to find any sellers at this level. The convertible loan notes give International the chance to buy back shares in Drilling at 37p. The deal effectively gives Chemical Bank, with big energy interests, control of Drilling. Mr Paul Bristol, chairman of both companies will remain on the board of Drilling. Yesterday he described the deal as the biggest management buyout yet proposed. He was unperturbed that the deal had been struck so far below the original offer for sale of two years ago. He said: "Drilling will now have the backing of its management and a large bank to develop its interest. International will also have a clear balance sheet to develop its own projects."

David Miller on the keel controversy that does not quite measure up Americans run adrift in murky water

With only one day and two half-courses races remaining in the elimination series preliminary round to produce a challenger in the America's Cup at Newport, Rhode Island, that historic competition is living up to its reputation for controversy. The New York Yacht Club (NYC), if they cannot find a rule to snooker the opposition, are prepared to invent one: and the Brits once again cannot seem to agree on their minds who shall be chiefs and who Indians.

The former situation finds the British firmly aligned behind the Americans, calling the Americans a cheat while the latter has the more neutral and objective American wonderer how we've got ourselves organized enough to win the war (the one where they were on our side). In between the two controversies Peter de Savary's quiet smile of optimism remains as wide as Rhode Island Sound.

The carefully stage-managed yet none the less clumsy release of a private letter from the commodore of the New York YC attempting to discredit the legality of the design of Australia II, emphatic leader of the elimination series so far, is not actually to have her disqualified because of her innovative keel. Clearly demonstrating the anxiety of the Americans that they may, after 130 years, finally surrender the trophy which is worth many millions to US yachting in general and the folk of Newport in particular.

Whose hand on the helm? The crew are split 50-50 on Crebbin (left) and Pattison

Americans into making it public. A member of one of the rival syndicates said yesterday: "The New York Yacht Club have now got a problem - where do they cause difficulty next? I would turn their attention to on the regulations will be made, and then sails. If they open that particular door the issue doesn't bear thinking about. Most of the boats, for instance, on the Italian boat Azzura are made by North, are said to be designed by an Italian, but to many people look as if they are by the same designer as those on Tom Blackaller's Defender (Blackaller is one of the three candidates to skipper the American defender)."

"Most of us believe the original decision of the measurement committee that Australia II is legal is perfectly reliable, but one can depend on them being totally down the line."

Warren Jones, the executive director of the Australia II syndicate on behalf of Alan Boad, remained sanguine about the latest example of American sharp practice. He said: "We weren't surprised by the fact there was some form of movement against us, we've come to expect it over the year. Of course the inside of the letter is that we're illegal and incorrectly rated but we went to great lengths right from the drawing-board stage to ensure that everything was correct."

"Twelve is a development class and for the New York Yacht Club to try to claim that our keel is a peculiarity is something which just doesn't exist in a development class. What surprises us is their lack of style. Obviously they missed out that one of the other four challengers close behind us might turn out to be a Judas but we're delighted by the solidarity the others have shown and in particular the way Peter de Savary immediately came out and said he had no wish to win this way."

What has already turned out to be a disappointing week to cricketeer Ian Botham like could constitute if the English all-arounder's two old Guy's Gold, is beaten in the Featherstone Maiden Stakes at Pontefract especially if it is by Bou Honnage who is trained by his good friend Michael Stoute.

Stoute's other fancied runner there Bold Mover may be thwarted in the Motocray handicap by Flight of Time, especially now that Brighton's stable is in such irretrievable form. Finally, Mark Smyth has not seen Crested Lark on the long journey from Lambourn to Ayr for the Edinburgh Handicap but for the benefit of his health, Crested Lark has been there before and brought home the bacon. Following a well observed win at Salisbury last month, he is fancied to succeed again.

Reaching for the key to Florida

By John Hennessey Golf Correspondent

Three young men reached out yesterday for the £1,000 prize that goes with the national assistants' championship, sponsored by Foot-Joy, at Coombe Hill. They were Gary Cole, of St George's Hill, Bryan Lewis, of Panshanger, and Ian Grant, of Orsett, all with 71, one over par for the 6,256-yard Surrey course. Their horizons are wider, however, for the tournament, resuscitated after a lapse of a couple of decades in a more authoritative form, carries also the entrée to the world assistants' championship in Florida in December.

Lewis, the first man to strike a hole yesterday, became the first man to set the standard. He comes from Nick Faldo country, Welwyn Garden City and would have occupied Faldo's usual position this year - in splendid isolation at the top - if it had not been for five at the last.

The main difficulty of the hole, only 390 yards, is that one plays from a valley on to an invisible green. Lewis, in his own words, "quit on the shot" and dragged it into a bunker, whence he came out well short. Thus the delight he derived from a six-iron to 100 for a two putt on the previous hole was short-lived. On reflection he to doubt has good cause to be satisfied with his final score.

Seniors stay on the ball

Those who believe that golf is a young man's game should be at Walton Heath over the next three days. Nearly 200 players have entered for the British Seniors amateur championship - all of them over 55 and all of them with handicaps of 10 or less. Such is the popularity of the event that players have come from the United States, Canada, Australia and Sweden to play. Nineteen of the field are over 70. Robert Sterling from Monroeville, who plays off six, celebrates his seventy-fourth birthday today. He is just pipped by Ian Pater, from Hayling Island, who holds a handicap of seven, as the oldest competitor. Five previous winners are also taking part, including the defending champion, Reg Gladding, aged 57, from Surrey; and Ken Bamber, aged 71, from Chorley.

Noalcoholic takes another dip at Deauville

By Michael Phillips, Racing Correspondent

Ask anyone who was at Goodwood last week which was the most exciting performance of the meeting and many would reply Sobri's victory in the King George Stakes because she made so many friends last year and it was good to see her back in the winner's enclosure again, surrounded by her extremely sporting connections. But for my money the most stirring effort of all was Noalcoholic's victory in the Sussex Stakes. For that was from the word go in a group one championship event. By leading so successfully from start to finish at a breakneck pace Noalcoholic not only secured the current classic crown but what they are but also established a new track record.

Now, with one group one race on the book his trainer, Gavin Pritchard-Gordon, is thriving after another victory in the Prix Jacques Le Marois at Deauville in 11 days time. Yesterday Pritchard-Gordon said that Noalcoholic had taken his Goodwood race extremely well, so much so that anyone looking at him now would not even realise that he had had a race a week ago, let alone a hand, record breaking, finished fifth in the rich Deauville event, but Pritchard-Gordon is of the opinion that he is better now than he was then and that the opposition this time will not be so strong.

Victories in the Prix Mésidor at Maisons Laiffie, the Lockinge Stakes at Newbury and the Challenge Stakes at Newmarket have shown Noalcoholic to be every bit as effective racing over a straight mile as he is nipping around Goodwood's right-handed dog leg last Wednesday. So Deauville's straight should be on both.

Sadly, for European breeders, it is still Noalcoholic's American owner, William Du Poot's intention to distance any further this season in Australia. "But Pritchard-Gordon said that Mr Du Poot might now be persuaded to let European breeders have the opportunity of using his horse during next year's breeding season before he finally departs down under.

As far as today's racing is concerned, Pritchard-Gordon is more than hopeful of winning the Brighton Challenge Cup for Lord Derby with Wiveton who has triumphed over the course and distance before. In the season of added interest is the fact that all of Wiveton's victories have been gained on left-handed courses.

Dawa River, who won at Brighton as a two-year-old, will be a threat once that Guy Harwood's stable has struck form again but bearing in mind the weight-for-age scale between three-year-olds and older horses Dawa River looks too close to Wiveton in today's race.

Joe Mercer, Wiveton's rider, has a good chance of winning two of the other races at Brighton on the course specialist's Sky Jump (2.30) and Centrust (4.0).

Murray plea on FT strike today

By Barrie Clement Labour Reporter Mr Leo Murray, general secretary of the TUC, will today make a personal plea to the leaders of the National Graphical Association for a return to work at the strike-bounded Financial Times.

Coe says illness may end his career

Continued from page 1 feeling so tired that he can hardly climb the stairs, that it is difficult for him to know whether he is feeling "normal" or actually unwell. But when on Sunday he ran the perfectly judged 800 and made his familiar attack on the final bend, only to finish fourth and looking as if he were running in soft sand, then the full force of his private nightmare came home and rest of the European championships in Athens last year, that his body had lost the ability to reproduce past performances, and had no hope of recovering in time for Helsinki.

Fossil hunter on the dole makes find of a lifetime

By a Staff Reporter The discovery of the Iguanodon came about in the simplest of ways when Mr Nicholas Chase was strolling along an Isle of Wight beach. He noticed what looked like a bone protruding from part of the cliff face which had collapsed. Moments later, he was holding part of the back of an animal which died about 120 million years ago.
